Application Essentials Workshop Series: Planning for Medical School

online workshop

*Are you thinking about going to medical school?
Are you taking prerequisite courses?
Wondering if medical school is the right choice for you?
If you answered “yes” to any of these questions,
this new, online workshop is perfect for you!*

Going to medical school is a big choice. And a big process. This new online workshop can help you get that process started. It's a customizable workshop, catering to your needs, regardless of where you are at in the process. You can complete this workshop individually, from campus or home, at your own pace... anytime... 24/7/365.

Work at your own pace

Designed by experts at the University of Minnesota Medical School and the Health Careers Center, this workshop provides:

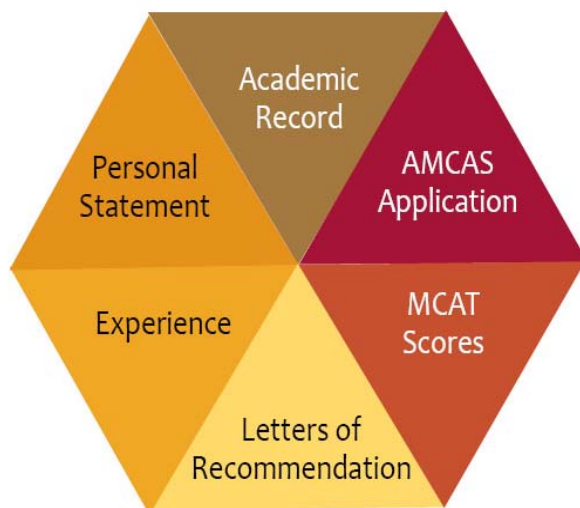

- Information about careers in medicine and clinical research
- Preparation and application strategies
- Insight into experiences of current medical school students

As a workshop participant, you will create your own Planning for Medical School Action Plan and be eligible for future related workshops.

New for Spring 2008

Sign up any time. Currently only available to U of M Twin Cities students.

“The resources are amazing and the workshop was set up very nicely. This workshop really made me want to get on the ball and start my [personal] statement and continue studying for the MCAT.”
- Pre-Med Student, 2008
